THE SECOND DAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

GREAT EXCITEMENT AMONG THE FILLMOREITES

A Bomb-Shell Discharged by Mr. Luther Caldwell.

Nominating Convention called by the North Americans.

ENDORSEMENT OF FREMONT.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Daily Times.

SYRACUSE, Wednesday, Aug. 27.

At 6 o'clock the two main meetings announced for this evening were held—that of the North Americans at Rastable Arcade, and that of the Fillmoreites in the open air in front of Masons Hall.

The Fillmore meeting commenced about six hundred and fifty persons, including boys, Republicans and Democrats, who were present from curiosity. A crowd of twenty thousand formed part of the assemblage, but the numbers were insignificant—by actual count, two hundred and sixty-three, and the larger part boys.

The principal speeches were made by Messrs. WILLIAM CHEEVER, Attorney-General Cushing, and R. O. PAGE, of Brooklyn Valley—of which there is no a report, and whereof be written; but the following resolutions were adopted, by the Fillmoreites, on Hon. R. O. PAGE, of Tuscarora:

Whereas, Resolutions of Messrs. LORIN and CHEEVER were adopted upon from these gentlemen, and that of Mr. CHEEVER was the stereotype address, which in no way other occasions and to no which other phrase be has delivered.

A gentleman of intelligence, of this city, proposed to the Herald of your correspondent a bet, that if a vote could be taken at once a majority present would be found by FREMONT. The bet was not taken.

The North American rally was intensely enthusiastic and larger by far than the gathering of the Fillmoreites. The indications were unmistakeably clear that the opposition of the people of this section are with the former, and that Onondaga Country is sure for Fremont by a large majority.

The North Americans gathered after their meeting and organized.

To-day their Council or Order will meet, when it is expected they will receive large accessions and put themselves afloat in their new ship. Its principles are of Freedom, Protestantism, and Fremont, including all Protestant American citizens, but excluding Every Catholic. To Politicians Democrats it is strongly impregnable.

The North Americans say then, the Anti-Roman Catholic party, as distinguished from the Fillmoreites and Democrats—the former fraternizing with the Roman Catholics by converting them to their organization, and the latter relying upon them as a considerable portion of their political power.

It is a significant fact respecting the rejection of Mr. FILLMORE by the Democratic Convention, that the North American Convention in Philadelphia, by motion of the adoption thereof of an against Roman Catholic proscriptiveness—this fact the most critical position as Anti-Roman Catholics, and with unknowing that position—have solemnly and unanimously nominated their candidate for the Presidency. It is an argument conclusive against the charge, so much vociferously propagated by the Fillmoreites, that he is a Roman Catholic—unless, indeed, it can be believed that so large and respectable a body of intelligent men would so stultify themselves by after disdaining from their National Council and Nominating Convention, by reason of the affiliation of those bodies with Roman Catholics, to deliberately choose a Roman Catholic as their Presidential candidate. This assumption is a Roman Catholic is false. The charge is believed to have originated with STEPHEN TABOR, in order, as Mr. BRADLEY proposes shall still be done, to secure from the support of Pennsylvania Anti-Nebraska Americans, and particularly to do away with the effect of the indorsement of him by the Anti-Roman Catholics or North Americans upon the foreign members of the American Protestant Association, which sympathize these members with those declaimers and debaters and their party.

It is thought the ruse will fail of its intended effect, and that the American Protestants will in no more vote for Mr. FILLMORE, standing as he does the Roman Catholics, affiliating with them in contempt of his party, and owing and owning to them political obligations, to be paid by him if elected. Second Day's Proceedings.

THE NORTH AMERICANS.

The North American organization convened this evening at 8 o'clock, to the number of about 250. Many new members were introduced. But little business was transacted beyond making provision for carrying the organization into the several towns in the State. They assume that upon their platform the Americans and lovers of Republican Liberty will very generally come to a union.

A large number of their members being obliged to leave the city at eleven hours, the Council, to the number of about 100, adjourned to Odd Fellows Hall at 11 o'clock.

At this Convention, the announcement was some made of our attempt in the Fillmore Council to bring the party represented there to an adoption of the platform of the Binghamton Convention in respect to the present National Administration, and to the extension of Slavery, by a portion of North Americans, and that to be done, and that the nomination was made the proposal referred to.

Mr. GRAVES, was received with great enthusiasm. He was called to the chair to make a statement of his position, to account for his coming from the Fillmore and have come over to the North Americans. Mr. GRAVES accordingly proceeded to say that he was an American, earnest for American Protestantism, and Freedom; that he had long and actively labored for those principles, and had believed himself in a party voting them to consummate with the convention of the Democratic party of a Slavery system of certain political consequences, but had proposed and effected in the Fillmore State Council the adopting resolutions:

Resolved, That the memorials made to Congress during the last session, and particularly in the United States Senate, by the Representatives of Slavery, to make the Territory of Kansas a Slave State, deserve the indignant reprobation of the people of the United States, and that all those, irrespective of party, who, by their votes in Congress or otherwise, have sustained Slavery in its infamous conduct, are justly obnoxious to the same reprobation.

Resolved, That the well-nigh fatal assault upon Freedom, in the outrages perpetrated in Kansas under the protection of the present National Administration, and the failure of Congress effectually to interpose and prevent those enormous aggressions upon the sovereignty of the actual inhabitants of that Territory, merit the unqualified condemnation of all lovers of republican liberty, and that no true American should be indifferent to the same, or fail, by word and act, in all fitting ways, to vindicate the oppressed against their oppression and oppressors.

Resolved, That the provisions of the Kansas-Nebraska act for the government of the Territories are fallacious in theory; and that this Convention deem it the duty of the American Party in this State and Nation boldly to assert and firmly maintain the doctrine of our fathers, that the government of the Territories is vested in, and should be exercised by, Congress.

Resolved, That this Council denounces the repeal of the Missouri Compromise as destructive to the repose, harmony and fraternal relations of the country; and that the Territory which was covered by it must, and shall be preserved to Freedom, so that Slavery may not exist therein, nor Slave States, formed therefrom, be admitted into this Union.

These resolutions, Mr. G. said, he offered in that body, with the statement that he believed the American Party in the State of New-York to be Anti-Nebraska in sentiment, and that he wished to place it upon record that such is its position; that, in his view, the adoption of his resolutions would promote the success of the American ticket in the North—particularly in the States of New-York, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania—while at present the party is daily losing ground in these States from the position in which it is placed before the people on the subject of Slavery; that with these and such like arguments he urged their adoption; that the Council was thereby thrown into the wildest state of excitement; that scores of members flocked around him and besought him to withdraw the resolutions, —some urging that if adopted the South would be driven from the support of FILLMORE, and for this reason, that however truly they embodied the views of the party in New-York, it would not do to set them forth. Moreover, that their adoption would repel from them the Administration-Nebraska voters, whom they were expecting would support FILLMORE in the State of New-York; and more seriously still, that their rejection, should they be offered, would drive from the support of FILLMORE thousands of Anti-Nebraska voters, now acting with the party in this State; that by such considerations they had sought to influence him, but failing, President SAMMONS summarily added the difficulty by declaring the resolutions out of order; that he thereupon appealed from that decision, but President SAMMONS was sustained by the Council, which thus rejected the resolutions; that he then returned to President SAMMONS his commission as Deputy for Rockland County, withdrew from all connection with that organization, and retired.

The statement of Mr. CALDWELL was listened to with the profoundest interest, and a touching and eloquent address made by him, upon the principles of North Americans, and expressive of his sympathy with and determination henceforward actively to support them, was greeted with rounds of applause.

The resolutions of Mr. CALDWELL were immediately adopted by the North Americans unanimously, together with the following:

Resolved, That the State Council now in session in this city is repudiated by this body; that its unconstitutional and illegal action has freed Americans from all obligation of allegiance to it or its decrees, and that this body is the true American organization of the State of New-York.

Resolved, That the nominations of FILLMORE and DONELSON be and the same are hereby repudiated by this body.

Resolved, That Jesse CHARLES FREMONT, the nominee for the Presidency of the American National Convention, held in the City of New-York, June 12, standing upon the positions of the Binghamton platform, as the opponent of the present National Administration, and as opposed to Slavery extension, be and he is hereby adopted as the candidate of true Americans of the State of New-York.

Resolved, That the State Committee be recommended to call a State Nominating Convention, to consist of two delegates from each Assembly District, to meet in the city of Syracuse, Sept. 17, at 10 o'clock noon.

A Committee was appointed to draft an address to the Americans of the State, setting forth the facts in relation to the action of the Fillmore delegates to the State Council, and the action of North Americans rendered necessary thereby.

The organization then adjourned.

THE FILLMOREITES.

The Fillmore Council met at 9 o'clock. The proceedings in the early part of the session were uninteresting. The persons present were fewer in number than yesterday by almost one-third, and nearly all of them were readily recognized as, by former associations, Old-Line Whigs and Hunker Democrats.

Voting for the appointment of a Committee to explain to the people the split that took place in the Council yesterday; the other indorsing the nominations of FILLMORE and DONELSON.

A motion was at once made to lay the resolutions on the table, and was on the point of being adopted, when the predicament in which the measure would place them was discovered, and after an earnest appeal that such a course should not be taken, the former resolution was laid on the table, and the latter adopted.

A motion followed that the Council proceed to nominate an Electoral ticket, but the same was cast—whether by reason of an uncertainty as to whether or not there should be a Fillmore Electoral ticket in the State, was not stated. The matter was referred to a State Nominating Convention proposed to be holden hereafter.

Buchanan men who are here have expressed great anxiety that FILLMORE shall be adhered to and supported by the Americans, for the advantage of their candidate—asserting, as did a prominent member of the late Cincinnati Convention, that FREMONT would thus be defeated, and the Democrats would have for BUCHANAN the Fillmore electors—for which concession they would be able to satisfy the Fillmore portion of the American Party.

A resolution was adopted for the appointment of a Committee to address the clergy respecting their interference in political matters.

Mr. CALDWELL then offered his resolutions, an account of which is given above, in his statement to the North Americans.

After the appointment of a State Executive Committee, consisting of ten whose names we have not, but whom we heard a member of the body from New-York speak of as old fogies; the designation of this city as the place for holding their next session, and the city of Rochester as that for the meeting of their Nominating Convention, on the 4th Tuesday of September, and the transaction of some other business of comparative indifference, the Council adjourned to digest what they had heard, ponder on what they had done, bill and coo with Nebraska Democrats, gull the foreign Protestants, humbug the South, hoodwink Anti-Nebraska Americans, cater to Old-Line Whigs, and keep them satisfied that it is justifiable for the rule and government of a great political party that black balls should exclude any man or men from membership with such party in this land of Republican liberty, and to meditate upon the wholesome consideration that was officially presented to them; that they are in debt $16,000. W.

P. S.—Let me say that your regular telegraphic reporter has not been here; that the dispatch to the Times of to-day as from him, was forwarded by C. E. Hammond, of the Albany Statesman, a Fillmoreite, and was not true in its statement of the number of delegates present. Instead of 600 there were at no time over 300 present, nor over 200 delegates and others admitted as delegates to poll the current. W.

Meeting of the American State Council.

[FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT AT SYRACUSE.]

SYRACUSE, Wednesday, Aug. 27.

The American State Council met again at 8 o'clock this morning. A large amount of business relative to the Order was transacted. Committees, &c., were appointed. Rochester was appointed as the place for holding the State Nominating Convention. The Council has nearly completed its labors with entire harmony and will soon adjourn.

A LATER DENUNCIATION.

Mr. LUTHER CALDWELL, of Rockland County, offered a series of resolutions denouncing the attempts to gag free speech at Washington, and condemning the members of Congress who sustained BROOKS in his attack on Mr. SUMNER; deploring the Kansas outrages and the failure of Congress to effectually interfere; denouncing the Kansas-Nebraska act, the repeal of the Missouri Compromise, &c. Mr. SAMMONS, the President, ruled the resolutions out of order. Mr. CALDWELL appealed from the decision. The Council voted to sustain the Chair, thus rejecting the resolutions. Thereupon a small number of Free-Soil delegates withdrew from the Council.

Resolutions ratifying the nomination of FILLMORE and DONELSON were then adopted unanimously, and after appointing a State Central Committee, and selecting Troy as the place for the next semi-annual meeting, the Council adjourned.

THE ANTI-FILLMORE COUNCIL.

The Free-Soil delegates to the American State Council organized in Oddfellows Hall this morning by the election of Hon. ANDREW SEYMOUR, President, and Dr. FERGUSON, of Oneida, Secretary.

Mr. CALDWELL made a statement of the proceedings of the Fillmore Council, and read the resolutions which had been rejected in that body. The resolutions rejected by the Fillmore Council were unanimously adopted with following additional:

INTERESTING FROM WASHINGTON.

The Current Drawing to a Close—Another Conference Committee—The Adjournment—The Senate in the Venter—Wheeler at the Springfield Armory Discharged.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Daily Times.

WASHINGTON, Wednesday, Aug. 27.

The contest is drawing to a close. On a test question—WHEELER's motion instructing the Committee on Ways and Means to report an Army bill without the proviso—the Speaker's casting vote made a tie. TRUMBULL, HARLAN of Ohio and WADE of Wisconsin, who arrived to-day, may defeat the proviso. KERR is also expected.

As the vote was taken by tellers, and not by Ayes and Noes, it is hoped that some of the Republicans failed to vote.

The Senate insisted on striking out the proviso and appointed another Conference Committee. The House also insisted, and complied with the request, and the two branches of the Committee meet to-night. They will probably report a disagreement to-morrow.

The Senate is disposed to agree with the House's resolution adjourning Congress, if final action can then be had on the Army bill.

The President, it is said, will not call another session if the bill fails.

The Senate debate to-day was long and animated. Mr. WILSON, somewhat frightened by the Fremont demonstrations in California, reluctantly voted with his fellow Buchanan to table his bill repealing certain of the tyrannical laws of Kansas.

Mr. CLAYTON denounced these enactments as worse than the decrees of the Stuarts.

Mr. WILSON thoroughly overhauled them, charging the Senate with insisting to employ the Army to enforce them.

Mr. SEWARD ridiculed the fear of dissolving the Union and revolution.

Mr. DOUGLAS indulged in a characteristic vilification of the Republican Senators, accusing them of concocting civil war, rejoicing at murder and robbery, and being responsible for the bloodshed in Kansas.

Secretary DAVIS told a representative to-day that the workmen at the Springfield Armory, engaged in manufacturing arms, are discharged. Those engaged in repairing will be retained, so long as the funds last. The Armories are mostly Fremonters, who hold the Administration responsible for their discharge. S.

Gen. Smith's Letter to the War Department on the Kansas Troubles, &c.

WASHINGTON, Wednesday, Aug. 27.

One of the letters produced by General CASS, to-day, in the Senate, from General Harney to the War Department, is dated Fort Leavenworth, Aug. 6. General SMITH says he would not notice the reports in the newspapers of Committees applying to him for protection, and his refusal to grant it and other such things, if he did not see the objects for which such reports were circulated.

He pronounces the whole a gross fabrication, with no foundation in any way for them. The troops have not, he asserts, committed any act, since he has been with them, which looked like an attempt to interfere with the citizens, except that of guarding persons charged with treason and in custody of the Marshal. The second letter is dated the 11th, and in it Gen. SMITH states he had received a letter from Gov. SHANNON, asking him to take the field with the whole disposable force in the Territory to prevent ingress of General LANE's party by the Northern boundary of the Territory, adding: "The information given to the Governor is so exaggerated, and is to my knowledge so incorrect, that I declined making a movement that would introduce as much disorder as existed six weeks ago. Captain WOOD, with his Company of First Cavalry, is upon the Northern frontier, and I shall depend on his reports to govern my action. Some of the companies along the Kansas River were sent by the Commanding officer at the Governor's request to break up the camp of armed men at the several places he designated. On the arrival of the troops not only were no camp formed, but none ever existed there or anywhere else in the neighborhood. I know that each party are trying to engage the action of the troops in repelling their adversaries. I place no dependence on reports which do not come from what I consider good authority.

Committee Conference on Army bill in session to-night.

Illness of the President—Sentence of Major Howe Approved.

WASHINGTON, Wednesday, Aug. 27.

The President is under medical treatment for a slight attack of chills and fever.

The sentence of the Court-Martial, suspending Major MARSHALL S. HOWE from his command and pay (proper) for three months, for neglect, to the prejudice of good order and military discipline in Minnesota, has been approved by the Secretary of War.

According to official dispatches from Gen. SMITH, the disturbances in Kansas are greatly exaggerated.

Col. BOYKIN has leave for a brief absence. He has not yet responded to the demand of the Secretary of War, for explanations relative to his late military conduct.

XXXIVth CONGRESS—Extra Session.

SENATE...WASHINGTON, Wednesday, Aug. 27.

THE U. S. TROOPS IN KANSAS.

Mr. CASS presented letters from Gen. PERSIFER F. SMITH, which he obtained at the War Department, giving an account of the movements of the United States troops in Kansas.

The letters were read.

Gen. SMITH states that the reports which have been going the rounds of the newspapers, are gross fabrications, and that the troops have not done anything to interfere with the citizens, excepting to guard the prisoners charged with treason.

MR. WELLER'S BILL.

The Senate proceeded to consider the bill introduced yesterday, by Mr. WELLER, to repeal certain laws of the Kansas Legislature.

Mr. HUNTER stated that the Senate had already passed bills containing the same provisions as this, and sent them to the House. He said that while the Senate on one hand is willing to repeal certain laws which they believe contrary to the Constitution of the United States, a majority of the House would not consent to act thus partially, unless they would at the same time repeal a great many more of them. It was thus manifestly impossible that this bill could ever become a law, and the only effect of continuing debate on it would be to delay the action of the Senate on the appropriation bills, and perhaps get up another political issue. There was no occasion for this. The political issues were already well defined before the people. The Senate had already twice expressed its opinion on this point. He would therefore move in order to get up the army bill, now on the table, that this bill be laid on the table.

Mr. WELLER asked him to withdraw that motion to allow him to make a few remarks.

Mr. HUNTER consented.

Mr. WELLER stated that he had introduced his bill without consultation with any of his political associates, and he cares very much that he was induced by them in his desire to adopt a conciliatory course towards the House. While he entertained great regard for their opinions, he was compelled to differ from them in relation to this measure. He was actuated by a desire to wipe out of the statute book all of the Territorial laws which, in his judgment, were unconstitutional, and, at the same time, no Chairman of the Committee on Territories, Army and Navy Appropriations, and the Committee on Ways and Means, he would endeavor to do his duty, without the sacrifice of principle—but when he had brought forward his bill, satisfied by these matters, that was not met by a spirit of conciliation or compromise upon the other side of the chamber. The Senator from Massachusetts proposed an amendment to the bill, which he (WELLER) knew could never receive the assent of the majority of the Senate, with whom he (WELLER) was intimately affiliated. When he found his efforts to settle the unfortunate difficulty between the two Houses was thus met with opposition from his own party friends, and was met by the other side of the chamber with attempts to load it down with obnoxious amendments so as to prevent its passage, he had no further compromise to offer. He had no amendment rankling against the House, but the matter had now become a contest of physical endurance, and he was content to let things take their course and see which House would first yield.

Mr. HUNTER renewed his motion to lay the bill on the table.

THE BILL TABLED.

Motion agreed to by 28 against 11.

YEAS—Messrs. Adams, Allen, Bayard, Benjamin, Bradbury, Brown, Butler, Bright, Brown, Butler, Cass, Clay, Dodge, Douglas, Dixon, Hunter, Iverson, Johnson, Jones of Tennessee, Mallory, Mason, Pearce, Pratt, Pugh, Reid, Sebastian, Toucey, Weller.

NAYS—Messrs. Bell of Tennessee, Clayton, Crittenden, Fessenden, Foster, Harlan, Hamlin, Seward, Trumbull, Wade, Wilson.

THE ARMY BILL TAKEN UP.

The Senate then proceeded to consider the Army bill.

Mr. HUNTER stated that this bill was the bill upon which the two Houses disagreed at the adjournment of the last session. There had been conferences upon it which were unsuccessful, but although the last vote of the House was to adhere to their disagreement to the Senate amendments, he was willing to give the Houses as many chances to vote upon this question as they could have, and he therefore moved the Senate insist and ask another conference. He had no doubt of his parliamentary right to make this motion. He desired to take away all ground of objection that the Senate had not shown a proper degree of courtesy towards the House. This would give the House two more opportunities to vote upon the question. When the bill should go back to the House, if there should be a majority in that body in favor of passing the bill in the usual form, they would have an opportunity to recede, or if another Committee of conference should be appointed and be unable to agree, when that fact should be reported to the House, there would still be a chance to take another vote upon receding. Thus they would have ample opportunity to reconsider what he could not help regarding as an unwise and hasty determination upon their part to persist in a proposition to which the Senate could never agree.

Mr. BELL, of Tennessee, said he should vote for the motion of Mr. HUNTER with great pleasure, but he rose principally for the purpose of correcting an erroneous impression which seemed to have prevailed in some quarters with reference to his remarks on a former occasion with regard to this bill. He had been thought that he was willing to recede, but he expressed no such opinion, although he earnestly contended that the Senate ought to insist and ask a Committee of Conference instead of adhering. He took the opportunity to ask Mr. CASS whether he understood from those letters which he had caused to be read this morning, there were at this time no disturbances in Kansas.

Mr. CASS replied that they were the latest official returns that had been received at the War Department, and they showed what had been the conduct of the military there. As to the subsequent telegraphic reports, there might be some foundation for them, although it was very probable that the actual condition of things was exaggerated.

Mr. BELL said twice before he had been led to suppose that all the difficulties were terminated, from information derived from the Executive Departments, and from officers in command in Kansas that there were ample forces there to suppress all disorder. Upon both these occasions, however, it turned out that he had been deceived again. If difficulties still exist there, as he was afraid was the case, he hoped that measures would be taken to restore tranquillity, and he hailed with pleasure the movement of the Senator from Virginia (HUNTER) for another Committee of Conference on this bill.

Mr. CLAYTON was glad to hear the motion of the Senator from Virginia, but he thought it would have been much better to start right and pursue a straightforward course than to go wrong and have to back out. The majority of the Senate were wrong the other day, when they undertook to express their disagreement on a bill precisely like this, and he hoped they would now agree to another Committee of Conference. He proceeded to comment with much severity on what he termed the infamous laws of the Kansas Legislature, saying they should be repealed before the adjournment of Congress, and if the Senate refuse to take that step the responsibility must rest upon them. One of these laws sentenced a man to hard labor for not less than two years for discussing the question whether Slavery does or does not legally exist in Kansas. It was not less than two yes g, but it might be fifty years, and a man should live to the age of Methuselah, he might be confined nine hundred and odd years for that offence. This was as tyrannical an act as was ever passed by the Stuarts, Tudors or Plantagenets of England. These laws also require test oaths to support the Fugitive Slave Law, and there were hundreds of honest men in the Union who, while they never intended to resist that law, would never take an oath to support it. Such laws as these he characterized as infamous and oppressive, and there were others as bad as these, and unless the Committee of Conference should go the whole length and repeal these abominable laws the responsibility of refusing will rest upon the Senate as well as the House.

Mr. WILSON read extracts from the Congressional Globe of debates in former years upon appropriation bills, to show that the course of the House in inserting the Kansas proviso was neither unprecedented nor unparliamentary, and that the Senator from Virginia himself (HUNTER) had voted for measures of several legislation when inserted in appropriation bills. Then there was no pretence that such action was revolutionary or factious, but now the cry is raised that the responsibility of defeating the Army bill must rest upon the House of Representatives in consequence of the proviso, to which the Senate refuses to agree. The Senator from Virginia the other day moved to adhere, and said he was willing to let the issue go before the country and take the responsibility, but now the majority dared not accept that issue, and were willing to ask another conference, and that Senator took the lead and made the motion. This was neither more nor less than backing out, and it showed their position was untenable. He proceeded to read extracts from articles written by JAMES MADISON, in the Federalist, to show it was the right of the House to refuse appropriations, unless their equality as one branch of the National Legislature was conceded by the Senate.

The motion of Mr. HUNTER was then agreed to by Yeas 33; Nays 6.

NAYS—Messrs. Durkee, Foster, Harlan, Trumbull, Wade, Wilson.

Messrs. HUNTER, CRITTENDEN and BIGLER were appointed the Committee of Conference on the part of the Senate.

Mr. BENJAMIN desiring to address the Senate on the subject of the resolution submitted by Mr. CLAYTON, for a Select Committee of Conference, was taken up for consideration.

Mr. BENJAMIN said the extraordinary remarks of the Senator from Delaware (CLAYTON) were he [illegible] to its law. In 1801 a Mr. SHERWOOD was tried in one of the eighty graves disturbed by the street improvement. A marble tombstone, inscribed with his name, still stood over the remains which was identified by a daughter, who, with filial reverence, gave a zealous attention to their proper interment. "His skull and bones, and portions of his grave-clothing, were found lying in his grave." As to this grave and its contents, the following are about the propositions the report suggests, by way of question, but leaves, after all, unsolved: (1.) "Who is legally and primarily entitled to the custody of a dead body?" (2.) "Who is legally bound to bury it?" (3.) "If a body be dug from its place of burial, who then is legally and primarily entitled to its custody, and who is bound to inhume it?" (4.) "Had any one any legal interest in that grave, or a right to preserve the repose of its occupant?" (5.) "Or legal interest in the monument, or right to preserve its repose?" (6.) Were these interests and rights, if any, "property," in legal acceptance? (7.) Were they rights of which a "Court of justice" takes cognizance?

The report presents the usual definitions from elementary writers of the word "property." Perhaps a more instructive inquiry here is: What are the modes of its acquisition? Property in anything is the exclusive right of possessing, enjoying, disposing of it—ownership. Man has, by nature, property in the earth and all its productions. They belonged to mankind in common. There were of necessity means to appropriate them. Mere occupancy gave title to land. Labor, which takes out of the free hand of nature, and adds thereto what it takes, has "begun a property." Man in society, through its laws and usages, secures property by inheritance, by gift, and by purchase.

"Although the earth and all inferior creatures, be common to all men, yet every man has a property in his own person; this nobody has any right to but himself. The labor of his body and the work of his hands, we may say, are properly his." (LOCKE on Government, 187.) That is, he has usufruct of his body during life; at death it becomes no longer his. He may leave it, but cannot commit it to [illegible] or bequeath it. It does not [illegible]. It is a question even, if he can by will make it a legal obligation on his heirs, or constitutes, to inter it decently, although Courts of Equity may enforce a provision to that effect as a trust. When the last solemn scene is passed, and even before the body is committed—"dust to earth, ashes to ashes, dust to dust," in or out of a coffin, it ceases to be property or in any sense capable of ownership. If this is not so, at what point, in its follow the cadaver a stage on its brief journey?—at what point of decay does ownership in it cease? Is the world into which it presently enters property? And if so, is it real or personal property, and to whom does it belong; to the personal representatives or the owner of the soil? What prevents the latter from simply carting it away, to make a garden or fill a sewer? A vault indeed secures the remains from removal, but through ownership or title in the vault itself, not in the dead it happens to contain.

We have now the true and only reason why the common law, sufficiently grasping, has all along ignored the human body after dissolution. It became thereby worth nothing, and not within its domain, and so, as a matter, the Church, in her charity, continued to take it in, and has guarded with zealous reverence its humiliation, from motives entirely, to the law. There was at any rate no temptation to them.

With these general observations, allow me to make some comments as to the above propositions of the report, as follows:

(1.) In this State, in the absence of statute regulations on the subject, no one "primarily," that is, I suppose, before the interment, can legally assume custody of the human cadaver. The common law never may to and interfere, except by an act of that very usurpation the referee declaims against so stoutly, as we shall presently see. Of your charity, bury meet is the mute and helpless appeal to collusions to private affection or public benevolence. It would puzzle the ingenuity, even of the author of the report, to find in law or equity [illegible] a remedy for the neglect or the means of punishment, in such a case.

There was the body to be carried, it is probably different. Then there comes into operation a right of custody and protection, that is, provided the place of sepulture belongs to a church or cemetery legally incorporated as such. But this is a surmise of the writer, to which, however, he will again allude.

(2.) This proposition has just been answered. No one is legally bound to bury the dead. It is a work of mercy, with which no tribunal in our State has as yet anything to do, except in the single instance where its equity powers are, perchance, invoked to compel the performance of a duty towards the dead, with which some church or cemetery may, by implication or express contract, have become charged.

(3.) If ejected, the church or cemetery in whose custody it was before the contrivance is bound, under penalty of breach of trust, to rebury the body, not with "maimed rites," but with at least decorous respect. In the case of Mr. SHERWOOD's remains, it was the duty of the Brick Church to have at once, at once, and without asking or refusing from a release or court of law. It may, perhaps, seem a course quite Christian-like, and not savoring of even a slight partiality for Voltaire or any system infidel or superstitious. As it will see, however, Dr. SPRAGUE's corporation [illegible] right and power to perform a good work, and under color of law.

(4.) The argument of the Report, under this head, as my apprehension is not at all complete, and leaves us a conclusion. What are we to understand by the sentence, "The right to the mere remains of a person, although intangible or invisible, may properly be 'property?'" The learned author evidently meant something, for what? I know myself of no use to describe. The "repose of a person." What is property, can it, or the right to it, be? It is not "goods or chattels, nor is it, strictly speaking, a "chose in action." A [illegible] is not property. The term is more [illegible] and liable to be misapplied. Property in the strictly legal sense, is the right of possession, enjoyment, and disposition, to the exclusion of others, of the thing of which it is predicated. Property in the dead is the right of burial, and control of the remains, for the purpose of burial, and the right of the dead to be buried. The property is in the dead, not in the living. The property is in the dead, not in the living. The property is in the dead, not in the living

ALBANY, Wednesday, Aug. 27, 1856.

Yesterday, we had neither rich treat in the Zoological Section. I have already told you the topics, that I intend to adhere to the readers of the TIMES to which I intend to confine the attention of the distinguished.

Professor AGASSIZ, of Cambridge University, is a tall, stout, good-looking man, with hair and whiskers, or something about the head that leaves an impression of a warm, high-toned portrait, excepting the Chin. He did not fail to do his duty and stop, in the most delicate manner possible, any reader who had slept during the twenty minutes allowed him for a reference to the light or darkness, the hour or the day, yesterday spent and do record.

The paper read by Dr. COUPER (TRAD. GERSER's) on so-called Intestinal Parasitic, had a good deal of popular interest. It was a sort of comment upon a story in the New-York DAILY TIMES of Dec. 16, 1855, extracted from the Correspondence of the Times, which was a story about the body of a boy, who died at seven years of age and was buried. Some time afterwards, said the story, the skin and muscles were found in a good state of preservation, but changed to stone. The bones were unaltered, and those of the arms were movable in their sockets, and contained. The substance of the skin, muscles, and little altered, &c., &c.

Dr. COUPER presumed that this was a case of the human body [illegible] Cemetery yards has brought to light, in the history of this sort. The properties of adipocere are well known. It is defined as that fatty substance into which muscle is changed by the action of water, or by putting in moist earth. The reader exhibited a large specimen of it and proceeded to give its history. It was taken from a coffin that had been buried in very damp soil, through which the water ran at a rapid rate. In the same ground another body in similar condition was found seven years after buried, the body floating in water. In one of these cases the lower limbs were covered at the origin. The specimen exhibited was part of the body of a woman who died over seventy years of age and had been interred seventeen years. The specific gravity of adipocere is from 728 to 836 thousandths. Water is 1000. It is water, and if a coffin is filled with water the whole corpse rises, and settles again as the water leaks out in a position that will be determined by the weight of the different portions. This fact has given rise to the imagined turning of bodies in their coffins and has led to the popular belief that vital latent death is not uncommon. The cause of gave was certainly the theory to account for such turnings, but he did not think it is satisfactory. The knowledge of this fact will prevent the occurrence of the fresh and unnecessary grief often caused by the discovery of these "turnings." The discoverer of Gurne, who experimented in 1794-5 as to the formation of adipocere, was that it is formed from fibrine.

Dr. [illegible] reported a case of a body changed into adipocere, which was found in a Washington City graveyard, after twenty-five years' burial; but the only organ that could be satisfactorily identified was the liver. Here was a [illegible] structure—undergoing this remarkable change. Possibly it was a case of fatty degeneration. The graveyard was very low ground, and the graves were full of water. He united with Mr. GERSER in commending Dr. CHARLES WRIGHT's work on the subject.

Prof. HOLBROOK cautioned the Convention to be slow in admitting these reports of what are called human petrifactions. A communication has lately been read to the Boston Academy, detailing how the bones of an infant in Illinois had been converted into [illegible]. But a strict examination showed that, in all probability, there was no replacement at all in the case.

AGASSIZ ON THE ONE-CALLED ANIMALS.

The next paper was by Mr. AGASSIZ, on the One-called Animals—the last division of his subject, Animal Development. Thus the tissues of the animal body are identical with those of the plant—that both were composed of cells—was discovered long ago. Some 18 or 19 years since it was suggested that the organs of animals existing composed of a cell, as it is well known that there are [illegible] cells capable of reproduction as a whole body. Whether there are or not is a matter of great importance, as may easily be conceived on remembering that to know the character of the cell is more important than to know the total functions of the total organ. Some researches have been made into this subject, and some zoologists have published their experiments to show that there are certain one-called animals. But, unfortunately, their physiologists were confined to those groups of animals which are classed by some with the plants, and by others who regard them as animals, are placed in the class Infusoria. The Professor took up in order after order in this class, and successively received each order from [illegible], demonstrating the necessity of reckoning the order as a true plant, another as a mollusk, another as the embryo of worms, and so on. Now, said he, the whole class of Infusoria is gone from the system—not a member is left of it, and we are left to the inevitable conclusion that no animals have yet been proved to be one-called since the few which at one time were supposed to be one-called have been resolved into other and equal parts; and the search for the material parts in each of these parts has proved of organization goes on until the whole body has hitherto been found to be a mass of cells, such as is represented the anatomy of embryo. In the egg of other animals this segmentation begins in the centre of the yolk, and when it is completed, the whole mass may be seen within that membrane. What is it that develops within the yolk membrane? Is it the animal egg?—and in this first movement of the mass we see a motion very analogous to the movements of the [illegible] in plant cells.

But this is not the end of the wonders in the egg of all animals. In some the membrane in the yolk is adherent to the surface of the yolk at one point, and at this point the filament of the white is elongated into the yolk. The fact has not before been published, but at this point there is a regular funnel, and the cell above the germ, in which there is the germ, and the funnel is widened at the mouth of it, and the germ is observed to enter the swelling yolk. Now what was this yolk-bag but a single cell, and what was the funnel, but not the yolk-bag? Thus we see that in every every animal? Therefore, the mode of the, the young worlds, every animal, one a cell, and the germ, the [illegible]. So long as he continued in that one employment he was such, but he ceased to be one-called when he dropped it and became indeed a [illegible]. When the [illegible] in [illegible] from the egg of the fowl it is no longer a one-called animal. But cells differ from one another, and must be remembered. The simple cells that [illegible] are successive subdivision differ greatly from the cells that form nervous tissue.

But that the cell was not been absurdly introduced in the embryo, he was now made it in one step forward. There was no one proposed to controverts or confirm it when the paper in question was read.

ANOTHER PAPER BY AGASSIZ.

The next paper, read by AGASSIZ, discussed several experiments which went far to show that the growth of plants, that the growth of a [illegible] was not from the growth and development of the [illegible] from the growth of the [illegible] and [illegible] from the [illegible] of the [illegible] of the [illegible] of

According to the telegraphic report, the bridge, which was of [illegible], must have been of an extremely slight and rickety character, as it is stated that "persons had been employed yesterday in keying it up." It gave way when two engines were crossing, and by the merest chance but two or three persons were seriously injured. An accident had detained the Philadelphia train some five minutes, or there would inevitably have been a terrible loss of life. A disaster of this character is not one of those that could not be guarded against. Somebody was most criminally to blame. A bridge could not have fallen but from its imperfect construction, and the fault can be directly traced to the culpable party. Wherever the blame may belong, there it should rest. The safety of the public demands that in a case of this kind, where somebody is most clearly to blame, the guilty party should be made an example of, and we trust that there will be a thorough investigation as to the cause of this disaster, and a fearless exposure of all the circumstances connected with it. Whether it was owing to carelessness or ignorance on the part of the engineer, or of parsimony or recklessness on the part of the company, the truth of the matter should be made known, and the guilty parties be made to suffer for their gross neglect of duty. In this case there can be no verdict rendered of nobody to blame.

The Terror of the South.

The South has been so long accustomed to have things all its own way that the present aspect of affairs north of Mason and Dixon's line has inspired it with manifested terror. The numerous strength of the North has caused it, like the good-natured giant in the story-book, to endure a good many wrongs, because it knew it could, whenever it chose, be amply avenged for them. The time has at last come for resistance, and the South begins to tremble at the opposition it has wantonly provoked. Oddly enough, at the first prospect of defeat, the South threatens to cave in and quit the concern altogether. It will not continue the struggle for power, but, on the first reverse, threatens to withdraw wholly from the field. If it cannot have its own way, it will step out of the ring—the Union—altogether, and have nothing more to do with its twin brother, the North. The Southern Press, of every political shade of opinion, with hardly an exception, threaten disunion in the event of defeat in the present contest for the Presidency. They band together, as one man, and are horror-struck at the sectionalism of the North. In spite of the seriousness of the matter, the terror of the South, whether simulated or real, is positively ludicrous. They seem to have just awoke, beyond the Potomac, to the consciousness of the fact, that the balance of political power lies with the North, and that this power can be used whenever its possessors choose to employ it. The organ of the Administration at Washington is at last convinced that the country has been brought to "a great and alarming crisis," and appeals "to every man in the land who loves our institutions, who desires the perpetuation of our liberties, to come up to the contest with a determined purpose to rescue the Constitution and save the Union. There is not one hour to be lost."

In other words, if the Southern candidate should not be elected, the Union will be dissolved by the South, out of revenge for its disappointment. The New-Orleans Delta says:

"How would the South stand in a strictly sectional contest with the North? Would she not be largely out-voted? Of course, she would; and whenever that strictly sectional issue is made by the North, it is not for the South to consider how she would stand in the election, but to 'put her house in order' for the only event that should follow such an array of her enemies, to wit—separation and independence."

The South is as strictly sectional as it can be, but happily for the country, its sectionalism is powerless,—it can do nothing by itself.

When acting by itself it must always remain in a hopeless minority. The Richmond Dispatch says of the Fremont movement:

"It will sweep in the east over all the barriers of law and of the Constitution, and bear off every vestige of Southern institutions, and the Southern man itself from the soil on which they exist, if the South does not look the future calmly in the face, and with united energies gird up its loins to meet the coming hurricane."

It is not at all surprising that the present attitude of the North, which is one merely of self-defence, should excite such terror in our Southern brethren, for it is something new; but as soon as they can collect themselves so as to look the fancied danger calmly in the face, they will come to the conclusion that the dreaded hurricane is not much of a blow after all, and the "Southern race" will be in very little danger of being swept away by it. When they recover from their first fright they will have as little dread of Republicanism as the frogs in the fable had of their new king when they discovered how little harm he was disposed to do them.

"How would the South stand in a strictly sectional contest with the North? Would she not be largely out-voted? Of course, she would; and whenever that strictly sectional issue is made by the North, it is not for the South to consider how she would stand in the election, but to 'put her house in order' for the only event that should follow such an array of her enemies, to wit—separation and independence."

The South is as strictly sectional as it can be, but happily for the country, its sectionalism is powerless,—it can do nothing by itself.

When acting by itself it must always remain in a hopeless minority. The Richmond Dispatch says of the Fremont movement:

"It will sweep in the east over all the barriers of law and of the Constitution, and bear off every vestige of Southern institutions, and the Southern man itself from the soil on which they exist, if the South does not look the future calmly in the face, and with united energies gird up its loins to meet the coming hurricane."

It is not at all surprising that the present attitude of the North, which is one merely of self-defence, should excite such terror in our Southern brethren, for it is something new; but as soon as they can collect themselves so as to look the fancied danger calmly in the face, they will come to the conclusion that the dreaded hurricane is not much of a blow after all, and the "Southern race" will be in very little danger of being swept away by it. When they recover from their first fright they will have as little dread of Republicanism as the frogs in the fable had of their new king when they discovered how little harm he was disposed to do them.

A Specimen Growl.

To the Editor of the New-York Daily Times:

I have read with very great satisfaction your [illegible] of the "Adventures of the Arabs," and the charming scene written on the subject, all [illegible] region by some gossipy [illegible] Contra [illegible]

[illegible] in vain for any demonstration against in the English papers on the loss of two of the Pacific steamers, the destruction of over one thousand lives of the best and first of our citizens, the British press [illegible] in support of the last [illegible] ship. But here [illegible] A READER AND AN ENGLISHMAN.

We publish the above as an evidence of the small quantity of brains that is absolutely necessary [illegible]

[illegible] the Senate, yesterday, Mr. Cass presented letters from Gen. Shera, giving the result of the movements of the United States troops in Kansas, which were read. Mr. Wilson's bill to repeal certain laws of Kansas, then taken up, and after debate, on motion of Mr. Hunter, it was laid on the table by [illegible] The Army bill was again considered. Mr. Hunter moved that the Senate recede from its previous action, and ask for another Committee of Conference. A debate ensued, during which the present condition of affairs in Kansas was very fully discussed by several Senators. Mr. Clayton commented with much bitterness on what he termed the "infamous laws of the Kansas Legislature," saying that they had to repeal it before the adjournment of Congress, and that if the Senate refused to do this now the responsibility must rest upon them. The motion of Mr. Hunter for a Committee of Conference was agreed to, by [illegible] after which a very lengthy and highly interesting debate took place touching the relations which will be found reported very fully in our columns this morning. In the House, the Army appropriation bill was recommitted with instructions to strike out the provisions in relation to the Army in Kansas, and after the expiration of the morning hour, when a message was received from the Senate disagreeing to its action on the Army bill, asking a Committee of Conference. On motion of Mr. Campbell, of Ohio, the House adhered to its amendment, and a Committee of Conference was appointed. Whether this Committee will be any more successful than the previous one remains to be seen, though the action of the Senate yesterday may be considered a concession to the House.

The telegraph informs us of the arrival of the Star of the West at New-Orleans with later news from California and Nicaragua. The steamer left Aspinwall for New-York on the 20th with $1,500,000 in treasure, and there may be expected to-day or to-morrow. At San Francisco we learn that the Vigilance Committee continued in power, and had executed two murderers. Judge Terry was still a prisoner by the Committee. The news from Nicaragua is not favorable to the interests of Walker. Desertions are reported to have taken place in his army, and Colonel Salinas, a prominent native, had been shot for treason against the Government. This alone goes far to show that Walker's position as President of the Nicaragua Republic is held by no sure tenure. It is alleged that he has revoked the exequatur of the British Consul at Leon, which, in a manner that is not explained, was taken to be implicated in a conspiracy against the Government.

By the special telegraphic report of the proceedings of the Americans at Syracuse yesterday, will be found well worth perusal. A series of resolutions introduced by Mr. Luzzum, a friend of the Fillmore body, denouncing the outrage on Senator Sumner, and deploring the present state of affairs in Kansas, produced a lively discussion, and after ineffectually attempting to induce him to withdraw them, they were rejected; whereupon Mr. Caldwell withdrew, and subsequently made his appearance in the North American Convention, where the resolutions were adopted. The nomination of Mr. Fremont was fully indorsed by the Convention, who have called a State Nominating Convention for the 17th of September.

We continue to receive dispatches from the vicinity of the existence of civil war in Kansas. The last advices from there state that 2,000 Missourians were ready to cross the Territory on the 22d inst., and that United States troops and the Territorial troops were on the move. A dispatch from Kansas City states that a party of Missourians had seized the Quaker Mission, and commanded the inhabitants to deliver up their horses and leave the Territory. This demand was complied with, and they were not able to overtake A. Mr. Wm. C. Hora, formerly of Ohio, had been shot and scalped by some ruffians. No demonstration had yet been made against Lawrence.

It will be seen by reference to our report of the proceedings of the Scientific Convention, that Mayor Wood's proposition for the establishment of a great University of Science and Arts has been responded to by that body. A series of resolutions were adopted, in which the recommendation of his Honor was endorsed as of the highest interest to the nation.

Railroad Disaster where Somebody is to Blame.

The great majority of railroad disasters are occasioned by accidents which the ordinary and diligent attention could prevent; as undiscovered flaws in the frame of machinery, a misplaced switch, or, as the case may be, a defective bridge.

[illegible] Sunday last, nearly half a hundred lives were lost by the falling of a bridge on the Delaware and Raritan Canal, near Bristol, in consequence of the bridge being in a ruinous condition. Now, if the guilty parties who made it unsafe had been known, they would be liable to be indicted for manslaughter, and if they escaped the law, they would be visited with the execration of the community. But they are not known, and the bridge is left to be rebuilt by the Company, and the matter is left to be forgotten by the public. Now, we do not mean to say that the Company, as a Company, is not to be blamed for the loss of life, but we do say that the Company, as a Company, is not the party to be blamed. The Company is a fictitious person, and it is the duty of the Legislature to so amend the law that the Company shall be made responsible for the acts of its agents, and that the agents who do the mischief shall be made responsible to the Company. Until this is done, we may look for a continuance of railroad disasters, and we may look for a continuance of the impunity with which the parties who occasion them have hitherto been allowed to escape. We have no doubt that the late disaster on the Delaware and Raritan Canal will be followed by a suit for damages, and we have no doubt that the Company will be mulcted in a large sum for the loss of life occasioned by the fall of the bridge. But will the parties who made it unsafe be mulcted in any thing? We think not. We think they will escape scot-free, and that the Company will be left to pay the damages. We think that the Legislature should so amend the law that the parties who make the Company liable should be made to pay the damages themselves

MISS HAINES
Respectfully informs her friends and the public, that her school, No. 10 Gramercy Park, (East 20th-st.,) will reopen on WEDNESDAY, Sept. 17.

TO PARENTS WHO DESIRE THE REAL ADVANCEMENT OF THEIR CHILDREN.
There are two vacancies in Messrs. MASSETT & HILLEPLATT'S CLASSICAL, ENGLISH AND FRENCH SCHOOL, No. 1,021 Broadway; and, as their scholastic year is divided into terms of only five months each, application should be made at once for admission into the coming session, commencing Sept. 1 of the fifth term.
The instruction is individual, thorough, complete, systematic disciplinarian and philosophical; for the number of pupils is very small, being but twenty, and Messrs. M. & V. are the only instructors.
The subjects usually neglected in other schools receive special attention. The pupils are taught to speak, read, write and spell English correctly, and the youngest boy receives the same as, and even more attention than, the oldest.
There is no gymnasium connected with this school, because the attempt to unite physical with intellectual and moral training in a day school of five hours' session, is manifestly absurd, and must be injurious to the boys' progress in knowledge. The moral and physical discipline of the child who resides at home devolves upon the parent; but purity and truthfulness, the only basis of manliness, are constantly inculcated.

GENIN, No. 214 Broadway, opposite St. Paul's Church.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

It has been the writer's aim in this volume, to furnish the public with a true sketch of life in the Interior of Italy.

While several works illustrating the various features of a settled pastorate have been given to the public, this is, so far as the author's knowledge extends, the first effort to delineate domestic life in the Interior. The numerous biographies of men as have labored in this connection, which have been published within the last few years, are rich in interest, and should be followed by a work like this, in our literature; that may at least intimately follow the minister's household, and point out what is being done, and suffered in the family circle, as well as on the circuit and station.

Neat volume, cloth, $1 in receipt of price.

One New 12mo.—$1.

The Philadelphia Bulletin (which never praises poor books) says:
"If any one would read a very interesting narrative, replete with close original observation of local peculiarities,
LET HIM BUY THIS BOOK.
If he would realize the utter degradation and oppression of 'poor white folks,' and the consequent absurd exaggeration of the importance of wealth which prevails in certain parts of our country,
LET HIM BUY THIS BOOK.
If he would acquire much practical and solid information on a subject of great importance at present,
LET HIM BUY THIS BOOK.
It is much better written than now is 'got up' on current fashes or excitements of the day are wont to be, and it is replete with a family sadly wanting in most of the novels of the day—we refer to close observation of idioms, whether of language, custom, or character. In short, we cannot help warmly commending it, and are certain that every unprejudiced reader who

A new edition of that practical medical work,
HUMAN FRAILTY, OR PHYSIOLOGICAL RESEARCHES.
It is beautifully illustrated, and describes the causes and effect of all diseases of a delicate nature; it contains copious instructions for the perfect restoration of those who are prevented by incapacitants from entering into the marriage state, with observations on the direful results of early abuse; also a professional dissertation, illustrating the results of chemical tests, and examination of the Spermatozoa, by the Patentee's newly constructed Urinometer, with powerful lenses, also instructions for the proper treatment and cure of every stage and form of those disorders which, unfortunately, the English practitioner treats with mercury, is the inevitable destruction of the patient's constitution. Price 25 cents. Sent postpaid to any address.
This invaluable work may be obtained, as well as the Telescope, at HARROW'S, No. 167 Fulton-st., (few blocks west of Broadway,) New-York. To be examined, as usual, from 11 A. M. till 2 P. M., and from 4 till 8 in the evening.

GOURAUD'S ITALIAN MEDICATED SOAP—It is well known, cures TAN, PIMPLES, FRECKLES, ERUPTIONS, SALT RHEUM, BARBER'S ITCH, CHAPS, CHAFES, TENDER FLESH, &c., besides being the very best shaving compound ever invented. GOURAUD'S POUDRE SUBTILE uproots hair from low foreheads, upper lips, or any part of the body, rarely and quickly—warrants. LIQUID ROUGE, for pale lips and cheeks. LILY WHITE, for flushed, rough, pimpling faces. HAIR DYE instantly converts red, gray, or light hair, to a beautiful black or brown, without staining the skin. HAIR RESTORATIVE forces the hair to grow, and makes silk, wiry hair soft, glossy, and silky. Found at Dr. GOURAUD'S old-established depôt, No. 67 WALKER-ST., first store from Broadway. Mrs. HAYES, Brooklyn, and druggists generally.

WHISKERS OR MOUSTACHES—Produced in six weeks by my ONGUENT, which will sustain or injure the skin. $1 a bottle. Sent to any part of the country. R. D. Discharge of the Employees at the United States Armory at Springfield by Order of the Government.

Springfield, Wednesday, Aug. 27.

The following order was issued from the United States Armory here this afternoon:

Springfield, Aug. 27, 1857.

To the Foreman and Employees of the United States Armory, Springfield:

I am compelled to communicate to you the purport of a circular which I have this day received from the Colonel of Ordnance. An extract [illegible] is as follows:

Ordnance Office, Washington, Tuesday, Aug. 25.

[illegible] of the failure of Congress to make the appropriations for the support of the Army for the present fiscal year, and of the uncertain prospects of such appropriations being made, it becomes necessary to bring the expenditures at the various arsenals and ordnance depôt within the available means of the Department.

You will, therefore, on receipt of this, discharge all the workmen and other employees not holding appointments from the President, whose pay, wages and salaries are taken from the appropriation for the support of armies at the national armories.

In compliance with the instructions above written, you are hereby, from this day, discharged from the public service.

I am, with respect, your obedient servant, [illegible]

Gentlemen, to add that the [illegible] as a whole, and that branch of it with which we are particularly connected, have, to my personal knowledge, used every honorable effort to arrest the calamity which so summary an arrest of the progress of our operations must entail upon [illegible] and to save you individually from the inconvenience and loss which must accrue to you and those with whom you are connected.

[illegible] that you will do me the justice to believe that I have used my best endeavors to prevent this result, and that I shall deeply sympathize with you in your misfortune of employment.

I remain your obedient servant,

JAMES R. WHITNEY, Superintendent.

About two hundred men were discharged under this order. The four principal officers and six others are alone detached of the whole force employed.

The moulding of the Water Shops Department of the Armory goes on without interruption for the present.

The order was unexpected and creates some excitement among the workmen and citizens.

HERRING'S PATENT CHAMPION FIRE-PROOF SAFES—Nos. 125, 127 and 129 Water-street, New-York.

NEW-JERSEY.

The Execution of John Fox for the Murder of Jane Henry—No Acknowledgment of Guilt.

The execution of JOHN FOX took place at New-Brunswick, yesterday, just before 12 o'clock. It was witnessed by about three hundred persons who were admitted within the jail yard, besides many who had climbed upon the roofs of houses in the vicinity. He maintained his firmness until the last. He made no confession of the crime for which his life was taken, and manifested but little agitation.

His crime was the murder of JANE HENRY, a youth seventeen years of age, near New-Brunswick, on the 16th of December last. The body of the murdered boy was found on Sunday the 20th of December, in a gully about 100 feet from the Raritan River, and half a mile below New-Brunswick. It lay with the throat cut from ear to ear, and a small rivulet of water ran under his throat. His overcoat was buttoned up to the neck. Various articles used by burglars were found upon his person. His watch was gone and his watch pocket was turned inside out. His watch, and other articles, were found upon the person of his murderer. Fox was arrested on Monday morning, Dec. 21, at Elizabethtown, and taken to New-Brunswick, where he saw the body of the deceased, but exhibited no signs of agitation. He simply remarked that JOHN HENRY was his best friend, but evinced no grief at the butchery of him. They had been intimate friends for several months. Fox was a resident of Elizabethtown, where PATRICK HENRY, of New-York—father of the murdered lad—has resided in the Summer season for a number of years past. Fox was convicted upon circumstantial evidence, of a nature which left no reasonable doubt of his guilt upon the minds of the Court and Jurors. His trial commenced on the [illegible] and ended on the 24th day of that month. The [illegible] stated that on Tuesday, the 24th of December, Fox and Henry were in New-York together; they left that afternoon for New-Brunswick, where they arrived at 6 o'clock. Fox stopped at a place where he had been boarding previously, and Henry stopped at a hotel.

On the morning of the 25th, Fox and Henry were seen together at the Railroad Depôt, at about 10 o'clock. They were afterwards seen going towards New-Brunswick towards the spot where the body was afterwards found. He was seen [illegible] on the road above the gully and near the place where the murder was committed. He was seen coming from the gully. He was [illegible] and staggered as if intoxicated. [illegible] other points between the gully and the [illegible] on his return. His clothes were [illegible] and blood was found upon his [illegible]

HIS LAST SUNDAY.

He slept soundly during the night before his execution, from 11 o'clock until 5 o'clock in the morning. Mr. A. R. SPEER passed some time with him in religious exercises on Tuesday evening, and again yesterday morning. He manifested considerable feeling at times; and on other occasions quite the contrary. He solemnly protested his innocence to Mr. SPEER on Tuesday evening, and yesterday morning he adhered to his assertion that he was not guilty of this crime. He said, "I call my God to witness that I am not guilty of the murder of JOHN HENRY!" He desired to be called at 8 o'clock yesterday morning, but he slept so soundly that the watchman could not arouse him. At 8 o'clock he was in good spirits and seemed firmer, if possible, in nerve than on the night previous. He then furnished for publication the following card:

I, JOHN J. FOX, about to be executed, deem it my duty as well as my pleasure in this trying moment to return my heartfelt thanks to those who have shown me acts of kindness since my imprisonment. To Rev. Mr. SPEER particularly do I feel under great obligation for his continued kindness to me. He has been my friend, and has faithfully performed his duty to me.

To my counsel, Messrs. SPEER and SCHENCK, I also return the thanks of a dying man; all that could be done for me has been done by them, without fee or reward.

To Mr. A. R. SPEER, who has been with me much, and has been unremitting in acts of friendship, I feel compelled to utter my thanks, and also to Sheriff ACKER. I am sure that he has conscientiously performed his duty to me, and treated me well on all occasions. To Mr. ACKER's family also, I feel very thankful. They have treated me with great respect and kindness. Major CUNNINGHAM, of Trenton, I also thank for all he has done for me. He has always been a true friend.

In reference to myself I would say that I have a strong hope in the mercy of God, and sincerely trust that he has pardoned my sins and will receive me to himself.

So far as I have done wrong during my past life I feel truly sorry.

I am entirely innocent of the crime for which I am condemned. With my dying breath I declare my innocence.

I freely forgive those who have injured me in any way—I carry no feelings against them with me. I sincerely trust that all whom I may have injured in any way will forgive me.

I have not been guilty of any violation of the law except the crime at Elizabeth, for which I was punished. The many reports in circulation about my being connected with murderers and burglars, &c., are all false. JOHN J. FOX.

At his request he was left alone with the attending clergy—Rev. Mr. SPEER and Rev. Mr. CROSS, of the Protestant Episcopal Church—from 9 o'clock until the time of his execution.

THE PREPARATIONS.

During the morning people came into New Brunswick in considerable numbers, and at the time of the execution there were over 3,000 persons about the jail yard, of whom there were probably 100 women and children. A military force of about 120 men was upon the ground, at 10 o'clock, under the command of Col. MOORE, sided by his staff. The companies were the New-Brunswick Artillery, Capt. CHEVALIER; the Morgan Rifles, Capt. HYDE; and the Emerald Guard, Capt. DOUGAN. The crowd of persons in the street, as is usual upon such occasions, manifested a want of order and decorum, and many things were said that fell with a chilling effect upon those who heard them.

Meanwhile, those who had tickets were admitted into the jail yard to the number of about 300 persons, including those who were required by their official position to be present. The gallows was brought from Philadelphia, and is the same one upon which MATSOON (colored) was hung a few months ago, and the brothers SCUYLKILL about three years ago; and SPENCE, who was executed previously to them. It was erected by E. P. MOHAN, of Philadelphia. The whole height was 16 feet. The platform was 6 feet high and 8 feet square, and consisted of two doors, held at the side by hinges and supported in the center by a prop which, upon being knocked out, gave him a fall of four feet. A special police force of thirty men had been deputized by the Sheriff to keep order inside of the yard.

While these preparations were going on outside, FOX was engaged in his cell with the clergy in prayer, and was overheard repeating the Litany and reading the fifty-first Psalm of David. He appeared to be sincerely repentant for his sins against God and man. If he could say a word to his past associates in guilt, it would be that they abandon their evil course and lead religious lives. He said at last that he had no fault to find, and that God had been gracious to him. The religious exercises over, he was prepared for the execution. His dress consisted of a white shirt, drab pants and gaiter boots.

THE EXECUTION.

At 11¼ o'clock, the prisoner, accompanied by the clergy in their surplices, the Sheriff and his Deputies, and several other persons, marched in procession from the cell to the gallows. FOX walked firmly and erect, and ascended the steps of the scaffold with an unfaltering step. He looked pale, but evinced great courage. Upon being asked, by the Sheriff, if he had anything to say, he said that he had, and made a motion as if to speak. He then told the Sheriff that he had communicated to Mr. SPEER all that he had to say. When the rope was about to be put around his neck, he turned his head and looked at it; then remarked: "Oh! my wife—my child! God remember them." While they were putting the cap over his face, he said in a low voice: "Lord Jesus, receive my spirit!" The prop was then jerked away, and he fell. The fall did not break his neck. He hung perfectly still for the space of ten seconds. Violent convulsions then commenced, which continued about three minutes. His pulse was perceptible until he had been hanging nine minutes. It was remarked by persons present, who had witnessed a number of executions, that his was the hardest struggle they had seen.

When pronounced dead by the attending physician, DR. VAN DEUSEN, NEWELL and LAYTON, he was cut down and placed in his coffin. Soon afterwards the coffin was removed to the rear gate of the jail yard, opening upon a side street, in which the hearse was assembled. The military were so formed as to allow the multitude to pass by in line and view the corpse. His remains were afterwards taken in charge by friends who intend to take them to Elizabethtown for interment.

It was observed with horror by some who were present that women gazed upon the execution from the windows. One of them uttered a startling shriek just as the cap was being drawn over his eyes.

Notwithstanding the persistence of the prisoner in declaring his innocence of the crime of murder, it is the almost unanimous belief of those who are familiar with the facts adduced on his trial, that the culprit met with nothing more than justice, according to the law of the State.

FOX was 22 years of age, a florist by occupation, and lived at Elizabethtown, where his wife and child now reside. He was an illegitimate child, and had no recollection of his mother. The man named FAULKS, who had passed as his father, told him during his incarceration that he was not his father. FOX's child is now three weeks old. He had not been visited by his wife from the period of his trial. Her late confinement prevented her from calling to see him recently.

German Republican Meeting.

During the Republican demonstration in Jersey City on Tuesday evening, the German Clubs from Hoboken, Hudson and Bergen who came to the meeting, united with the Republican Germans in Jersey City, and got up a meeting at DIEPE's saloon, in Newark avenue. It is stated that there were about 800 present. A very able and convincing speech was made by Mr. HANEMAN, the leading editor of the New-York State Demokrat. His speech was received with great favor, and the best of feeling prevailed among those present.

PICKPOCKETS.—Pickpockets were in the crowd at the Fremont meeting on Tuesday evening in Jersey City. A gold watch and two pocket-books are known to have been stolen. One of them contained $28; the contents of the other is not known.

WEDNESDAY, Aug. 27—P. M.

There was much dullness in the Stock Market at the early Board to-day, and, with the exception of two or three of the Railroads, the prices of yesterday were not sustained. In the afternoon this feeling increased, and was taken advantage of by sellers for the decline to press time contracts, particularly in Erie, which had been firm in the morning at 60, and in Reading, which fell to 85 ⅞ cent. cash, and seller 30 days. The closing sales of Erie were 59⅝ seller 60 days, 59⅝ seller 10 days. New-York Central closed weak, 89⅝ ⅞ cent. The Western Roads not so much pressed on sale, and for Rock Island as much as 93⅝ ⅞ cent. cash was bid, and Toledo 74⅝ ⅞ cent. Illinois Centrals, 91⅝@¾ ⅞ cent. sales. Missouri State 6s, 85⅝@¼, same as yesterday. There was no apparent cause for the heavy tone of the market, and no change in the Money market or Specie movements to justify it. The usual half-monthly California shipment was announced early in the forenoon, by telegraph from New-Orleans, as being on the way from Aspinwall, and about $1,500,000 will reach the New-York Banks before the close of the week. The shipment from Boston to-day, for Liverpool, was $638,000, of which only $207,000, as stated in our report of yesterday, went from this City. The following are the day's operations at the Sub-Treasury:

Paid on Treasury Account	$54,889
Received on Treasury Account	192,040
Balance on Treasury Account	12,693,970
Paid for Assay Office	348
Paid on Disbursing Checks	45,040

The offerings for discount at some of the largest of the Wall-street Banks, this week, are less pressing than last, and there is not so much first-class paper, 60 days to 4 months, left for negotiation with the Discount Brokers. The rates are 8@9 ⅞ cent. To-day, a leading firm of Bill Brokers were lending money at call in the absence of a sufficient offering of choice paper on the terms just quoted. Of long-date paper, 6 to 8 months, the supply is on the increase, made for account of the Importers, through the auction sales of Dry Goods now going forward. The rates are 9@10 ⅞ cent. Some 4-months Grocers' paper was done, to-day, at 9 ⅞ cent. There was less demand for call loans among the Stock Brokers than noticed on Tuesday. Foreign Exchange quiet since the making up of the Boston mails yesterday. The Baltic is the next Liverpool steamer, sailing direct on Saturday.

As noticed some days ago, there is considerable disappointment among the Importers at the apparent backwardness of the Fall trade and the indisposition of the Jobbers to pay remunerating prices for Silk Goods and the finer fabrics of Wool, both of which have evidently been over-imported since the 1st July. The trade is no doubt later than usual, but we much question the disposition of the country to take Goods as freely as they have been put upon the market. The comparative dullness is attributed in part, though erroneously, judging from the crowded state of the hotels, to the reports which have gone out prejudicial to the health of the City. The moderate bills of mortality through the present month must have corrected these, and as to the fears of yellow fever, which are occasionally alluded to, there is nothing, as heretofore remarked, to ground them on, so far as the City proper is concerned, save the rigid quarantine which has been enforced upon the large fleet of vessels arriving in the Bay in July and early in August from the West Indies and other Southern points.

The weekly telegraphic advices from the August traffic on the Western Roads, indicate much the heaviest business ever yet realized in any one of the Summer months. This appears to be the case with nearly all the established lines. From two of the new lines, Terre Haute and Alton, and Wabash Valley, the accounts are extremely encouraging.

We understand the new Artisans' Bank, capital $300,000, will open for business on Tuesday next, Sept. 1, at No. 117 Nassau-street. The managers are Messrs. N. C. Plant, President; Alexander Fraser, J. H. Browning, Ambrose Jones, Elijah Houghton, Harvey Bendell, George Gazzi, William J. Todd, James H. Gilbert, John Cutler, William Phelps, Henry A. Smithers, Buckley T. Bunce, James C. Darby, Edwin F. Bishop, John A. Livingston, Frank Vincent, John M. Davies, and Chas. E. Babcock. Mr. Charles T. Leak, for twenty years in the City Bank, has been made Cashier.

In the telegraphic news, via New-Orleans, from San Francisco, it will be noticed that the non-payment of the July interest on the California State debt in this city, through the neglect and failure of FALKER, COOK & Co., the late bankers of the State Government, created much indignation at home. Immediate steps were to be taken for repairing the wrong to the public credit.

Hon. J. D. ROMAN, of Maryland, has been made Receiver of the exploded Valley Bank of Maryland. The regular local banking assets we understand to be next to nothing. The so-called capital stock—$100,000—is mainly in New-York names and with a personal liability, under the charter, for its forthcoming. The vouchers, in the shape of notes, memorandum checks, &c., for the circulation used in New-York, are said to be on

Messrs. Lalane, of Metropolitan Hotel	$[illegible]
D. M. Mitchell, No. 93 Wall-street	[illegible]
Loaned by Leland on Hocking Valley R. Bds.	[illegible]
Total New-York vouchers	$111,[illegible]
Local paper at Hagerstown	[illegible]
Together	$126,[illegible]
Circulated registered	$150,000
Capital Stock	100,000—[illegible]
Apparent deficit	$121,[illegible]

The Receiver is an attorney of high respectability, and will probably be able, in some shape, to bring the statement of the concern nearer to a satisfactory balance than the foregoing figures appear to do. The hope is that the amount of outstanding circulation left upon the hands of the community at the time of failure was much below the registered total.

ALBERT H. NICOLAY'S regular semi-weekly auction sale of Stocks and Bonds will take place to-morrow, Thursday, at 12½ o'clock, at the Merchants' Exchange.

The September interest on the Bonds of the City of Milwaukee issued to the La Crosse, and also on the Bonds issued to the Fon du Lac Road, will be paid by Messrs. ATWOOD & Co., No. 8 Wall-street. The September interest on the Bonds of the Covington and Lexington Road, will be paid by Messrs. WINSLOW, LANIER & Co., No. 52 Wall-street.

In a notice, some days since, of the controversy between the Mutual Life Company and one of their Trustees, we declined to adopt, and briefly stated why, the suggestion or conclusion of a correspondent as to the motive of Mr. BLUNT's pamphlet. Finding the memorandum or note which was sent to us since appended to the Report of the Board of Examiners, we freely give it place as part of the official defence, and would have done so before had it come to us as from the Company. We are quite sure that the great body of our readers will appreciate our own sincerity when we add that we have no other feeling on this subject than the conviction, erroneous it may be, that the public interest in all such institutions of trust and benevolence, is best promoted, not by silence where wrong doing or extravagance is charged, but by an impartial hearing of both sides. If we have not done justice, before our readers, to the pamphlet of the Company containing the Report of their examiners, the fault is with the Counsel of the Company, who prepared the first notice and abstract of the Report, which, in common with other city papers, we gave a prominent place to in this column a week or ten days ago.

"NOTE.—Mr. JOSEPH BLUNT has recently published what he calls the "Correspondence laid before the Examiners," appointed by the Board of Trustees to investigate and report upon the affairs of this Company.

His pamphlet contains a part only of that correspondence, with a letter addressed to the Policy-Holders by him, first published as an advertisement in the New-York Tribune, embracing the substance of his numerous speeches before the Examiners.

Mr. BLUNT has not, and probably will not, publish the facts as contained in the minutes of the Board, and in official documents on file. On these facts alone, and not on this correspondence which they had read, or the speeches which they had heard, the Board of Trustees founded their Report as fully vindicating the Officers and Trustees from his attacks.

Smarting under the loss of his honorable and lucrative position, as counsel to this Company, (the unavoidable result of his acts and omissions, professional and unprofessional,) it is not surprising that Mr. BLUNT should seek, by special pleading, to mislead the public as regards established facts, or that, regardless alike of the decisions of justice and the interests of the widows and orphans whom the Company protects, he should, by fresh misrepresentations, endeavor to make fuel for another crusade against this Institution."
